Dedication

Because under her sponsorship the cheerleaders have improved to the point where they have won first place awards in the CSSD tourney two years in a row;

Because during her sponsorship of the yearbook, she established an enduring commitment to quality and achievement;

Because her efforts were a major reason why the Class of 1980 had a happy and successful year;

Because most importantly as these achievements demonstrate, she selflessly and patiently gives her time and effort to help her students become better people;

For all the above reasons, and many more besides, this yearbook is respectfully and gratefully dedicated to Mary Kovatch.

Homecoming

Homecoming Queen Peggy Volksdorf

Flanked by last year's Miss and Mr. Oriole—Peggy Groninger and Bobby Byers are ISD's new royalty: Lynn Ives and Mark O'Connor.

The 1980 Prom King and Queen: Bobby Byers and Karen Moore

In Retrospect, The Prom Was Great

"Have you asked her yet?"

"That dress is the same as mine!"

"Those flowers cost how much?"

"Are you going to King's Island later?"

Prom Weekend. The louder those phrases are, the closer it is. A prom wouldn't be a prom without the anticipation. It is one event that just has to be special, so the Junior Class made sure that it would be. They named their Prom "Oriental Gardens," and they turned the Hyatt Regency Hotel into a scene from a Chinese vase as the couples danced to the music of the Northwinds Band.

Every prom needs king and queen. This year that honor went to Bobby Byers and Karen Moore, who made a regal couple as they danced their traditional dance alone on the dance floor.

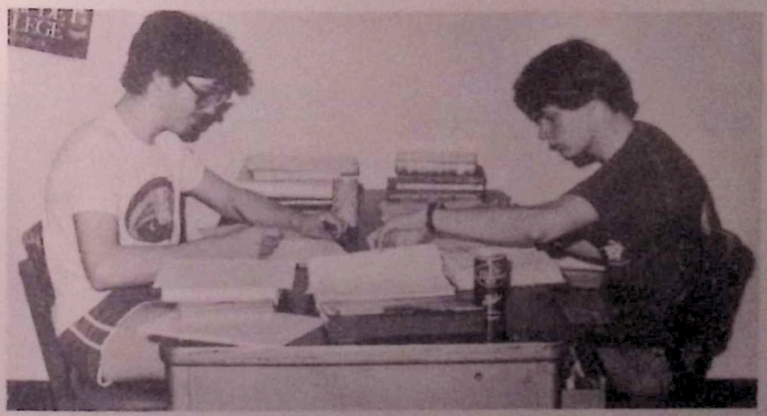
It ended at midnight, as all proms must. But no prom is ever really over not as long as the memories last.

Life at ISD

Jim Kinsey and Terri Busick preside over the Valentine's Day party.

"What Good Is Sitting Alone in Your Room?"

Life may not be all fun and games for ISD students, but there are plenty of things to celebrate: holidays, discomania, weekends, and especially each other. So, from the first "Welcome Back" party in the fall through the "Last Time Together" dance late in the spring, students, sponsors, and organizations alike try for the theme, the timing, the music, and the spirit to create one of ISD's most enjoyable events: a great party.



Jimmy Stafford and Jimmy Kinsey are doing their homework.

Dave Choate is allergic to mornings.

Look at the energy generated by "Wednesday Night Fever".

Anthony Metz and Mike Johnson are definitely in a partying mood.

ORGANIZATIONS

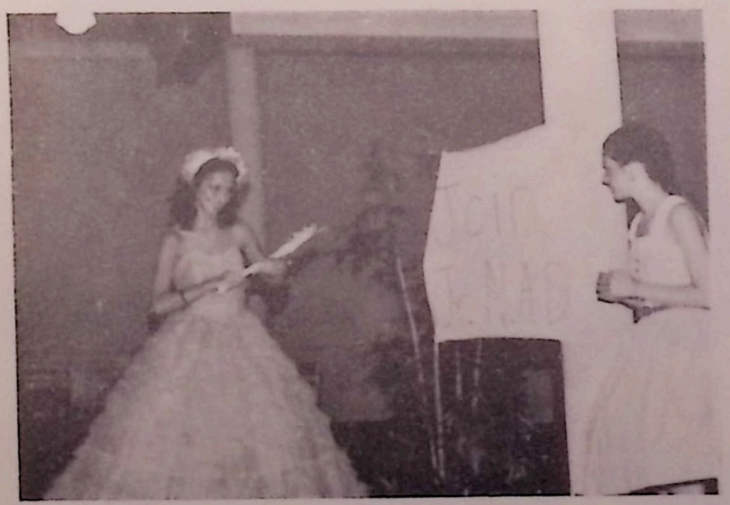
Moving to a Goal

Jr. NAD, one of the oldest standing organizatioins at ISD, consisted of 28 members and 3 sponsors in 1979-80. The members worked hard to be active and involved in different activities. For example, Jr. NAD members visited the Archibald Memorial Home for the Aged in Brookston, giving elderly deaf people fresh fruit and singing Christmas carols. The members also annually sell food on PTCO Day, have a Pizza Party, and a spring picnic. One of their best activities for the last two years, "Las Vegas Night", brings everyone the feeling of "gambling fever".

These activities help keep Jr. NAD and ISD #1. The enthusiastic members who were chosen to be delegates will march to the Jr. NAD convention held with the NAD convention in Cincinnati in July.



"What does this sign mean?" Dorothy (Karen Moore) asks Peggy Volksdorf, the Good Witch of the North.

Yearbook Staff Looks Back in Retrospect

It was frustrating, sometimes; so many things to do, so many ways to do them wrong, and so little time.

It was impossible to believe, sometimes, that the pile of dummies, pictures, and rough layouts would ever come together into a year book.

It has, and what we will remember long after the deadline have passed is how much fun we had putting The Legacy together. And many memories this year book holds.

Drama Club

The popularity of the drama club was shown by the success of its productions and by the audiences it drew. One of the hardest working groups at ISD—sometimes they rehearse five nights a week—they feel effort is repayed by the applause of their many fans.

Student Council

After many attempts, a student council was once again established at ISD. Though much time had to be spent getting it organized, representatives were chosen, officers were elected, and plans were made for next year, when it will be ready to go on the first day of school.

Despite Losing Season Orioles Set a State Record

The varsity football team was led by Coach Lynn Frye for the third straight year. The team added two assistant coaches, Don Haring and Ernie Grubb. They depended on several underclassmen to do battle on the football field, and fought hard in some close games, but only won against St. Rita. It was a long and tiring seven overtime victory. Those seven overtimes becomes the record for overtimes played by an Indiana High School football team. After the St. Rita victory, the Orioles weren't strong enough the rest of the year to win any more games. The team finished with one win and seven losses, but the young team gained a lot of experience for next year.

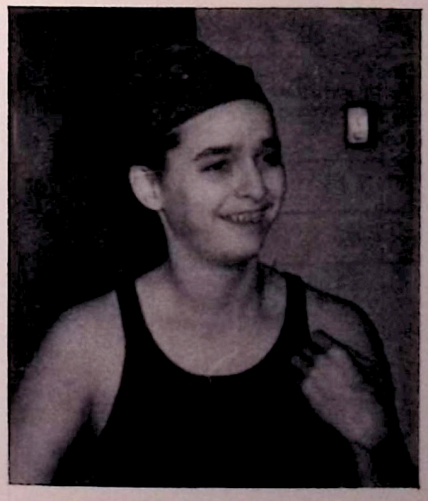
Girls' Swimming

Laura Genrich churns through the freestyle.



Sarah Stoops asks if this is her event.

Boys' Wrestling

The Orioles swimming team swam against bigger schools all year long. They had no victories, but set several school records. That helped keep their spirit high-that and the enthusiasm of the team's new members who promise a better record next year.

Wrestling Returns

The 1979-1980 season was the first year the Indiana School for the Deaf had a varsity wrestling team since 1976. The program was discontinued at that time because of a lack of interest by the high school boys. We were very fortunate this year to have Mr. Mike Walker, a student at I.U.P.U.I., volunteer to coach the team. Mike was an outstanding wrestler in high school, at Warren Central, and as a freshman at Ball State. The number of the boys joining the team was not as large as we had anticipated but nine boys did come out for wrestling.

Boys' Basketball

"We Try Harder"

The 1979-1980 basketball season was truly a "rebuilding year" for the ISD team. The Orioles had only two returning lettermen, Mark O'Connor and Frank Blackwell, from the 1978-1979 team. That lack of experience showed up in the season's record. Although they posted only a 2-18 record, there were some highlights: winning the Sportsmanship Award at the CSSD Tournament; Mike Johnson being named to the All-Star Team at the CSSD Tournament; Jim Kinsey's long jump shot to beat Ohio Deaf by one point; and the close games with Lutheran, Bethesda, and Indianapolis Christian.

Four of the five starters from this year's team—along with six other boys from the sectional squad—will return and, with a good group of freshmen to fill out the program, Coach Kovatch is looking forward to the future.

Tommy Perkins and the ISD spirit-breaks through.

Jr. Varsity

Slow Start But Good Finish

As last year's junior varsity team moved up with new head coach, Lynn Frye, new faces showed up for the junior varsity. The team started slow, winning only one and losing five before Christmas break, but finished with seven wins and six losses after the break, leaving the team with an 8 and 11 record for the year.

Coach Frye stated, "Every member of the team has contributed in different ways for several of our wins. The most satisfying achievement has been that the team defeated all the deaf schools on the schedule. The whole season was a good team effort on everyone's part. Hopefully the team will remember to carry what they achieved this year to their future years in basketball."

Girls' Volleyball

Girls' Basketball

Tough Season for Girls' Basketball

The ISD varsity girls' basketball season ended with two wins and 14 losses during 1979-1980. Despite the losing record, ISD had many close games. The girls showed their spirit and they didn't give up. Next year 12 girls will return and we look forward to a successful season.

First row: Tammy Clevenger, Phoebe Keen, Judy Lester, Pam Blanford. Second row: Manager Judy Bogusz, Manager Paula Wakeman, Marica Wilkerson, Tina Jackson, Carrie Cobb, Debbie Owens, Manager Rose Hayes, Manager Cheryl Rucker. Third row: Coach Ann Reifel, Peggy Groninger, Carla Baber, Bobbie Downing, Kelly Volk, Terrie Busick, Amanda Sneed, Jeanie Burress.

Girls' Volleyball Team Sets Up for the Future

The Girls' Volleyball team had a tough year. They always played hard, they always hustled, and they were usually in close competition with their opponents. But they finished with a record 0-11. But the spirit the girls showed and the experience they gained were a reward for never giving up.

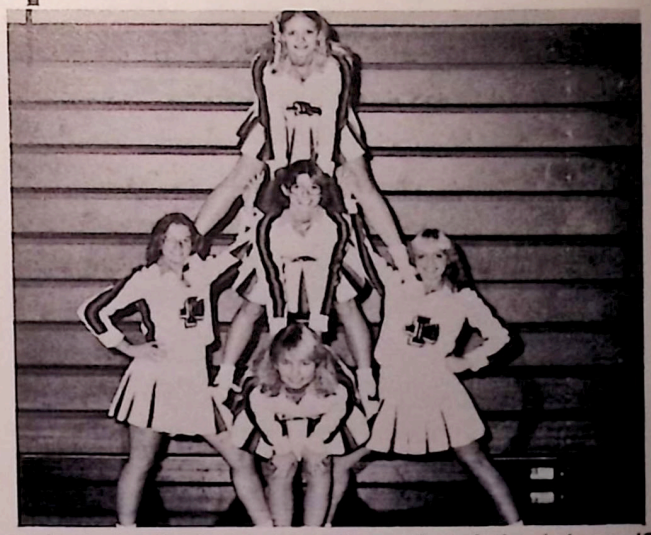
We've Got Spirit

The cheerleaders are always ready with smiles and cheers. They go out on the floor with pride in their team. Win or lose, they do their cheers to pep up the fans. The girls go to cheerleading camp to learn things like straight arm movements, smiles, cheers, and chants. They already know SPIRIT!

This year the Varsity Cheerleading squad won two trophies. At Butler University, against hearing cheerleaders, they won 2nd place. The other trophy came at the Central States Schools for the Deaf Tourney. They won 1st place against cheerleaders from six other states. They really deserved their beautiful trophies.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleading squad does a great job of helping out the Varsity Cheerleaders. They cheer as well as the Varsity Cheerleaders, have pride in their cheers, and they know they are good.

Special thanks go to Mrs. Mary Kovatch for helping the cheerleaders earn money for camp and for keeping the cheerleaders in shape and on the beam.



One of the intricate formations that helped keep ISD's cheerleaders the best in the mid-west.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders—Peggy Prosser, Dothier Mason, Tammy Ellis, and Marcia Wilkerson—attend a workshop at Vincennes University.

GIRLS' TRACK COMES IN FIRST

It was a thrilling year for the girls' track team. Showing power all season, they posted a sparkling 9 and 3 record. Their proudest moment came when they beat the Kentucky and Tennessee Schools for the Deaf and won the Kentucky Tourney.

After it was all over, Bobbie Downing was named Most Valuable Player, and Diane Selm, the "Most Improved Athlete".

David Geeslin goes as far as he can in the long jump.

Math

Seeing the World through Science

The word "Science", in Greek, means knowledge, and that is what science is—knowing the world. It gives us a structure for the things we see. The structures can be chemical formulas, periodic charts, biological classifications, or the anatomy of earthworms and cats—even pregnant cats. Students suffer through dissection (Oh! How Gross!) and memorization. There are so many strange names and terms. But in the end, they have a way of examining the world and putting new knowledge into the framework they've found.

Kelly Volk tries to find out what is inside a cat.

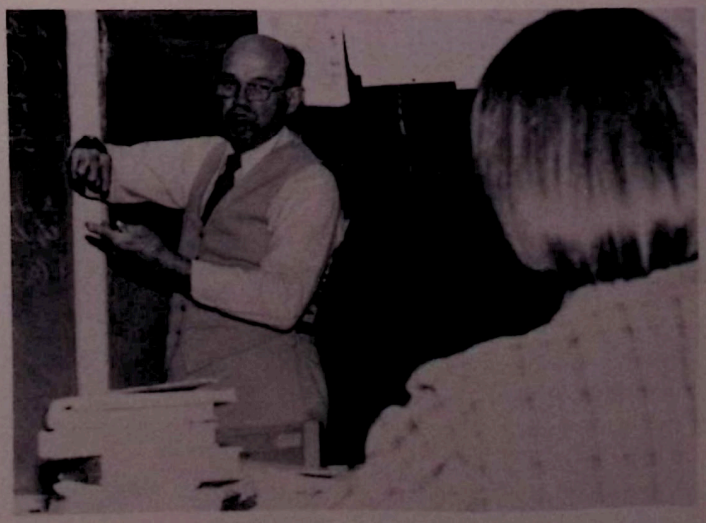
Math: A Tough Lesson

Math is one of the toughest subjects in our school. The students have a hard time. Some of them even have to run to their calculators and ask for help. And they waste lots of pencil lead changing lots of mistakes. Mr. Norman Brown, Mr. Melvin Squire, and Mrs. Carla Phelan are always ready to help when math becomes a problem, though, and we always find the right answer—sooner or later.

Science

Mrs. Haskett assures her class that they really do look like that under their skins.

Boyce Landis answers "2" to Mr. Brown's math question.



Mr. Brown, seriously, explains the rules of algebra to the class, especially, Theresa Niccum.

English

History

David DeVries scratches his head while thinking of a noun.

"Before There is Anything Else, There Has To Be Communication."

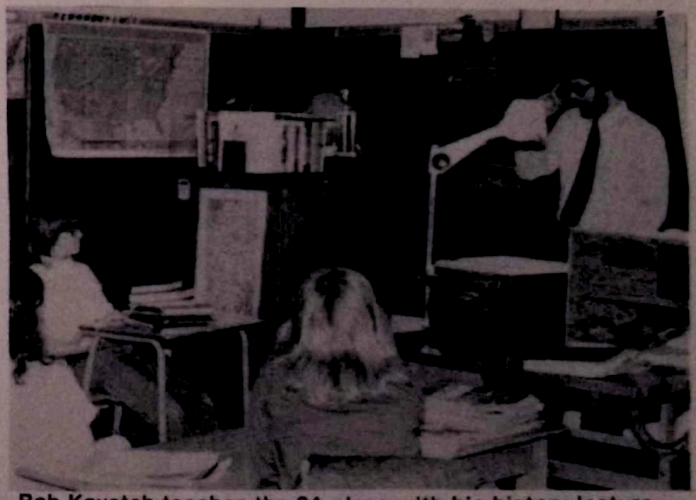
Qualifiers, modifiers, and predicate nouns. Direct objects, objective complements, simple and complex sentences.

"That book report can't be due this week!"

"What is the guy who wrote this trying to say?"

English is tough to learn. Especially if it can't be heard. So we work at it that much harder, because we know that there isn't anything in this world that isn't connected to everything else, and that language, the more we learn about life.

Oh, no, another test—I ain't ready.



Bob Kovatch teaches the 9A class with his history lecture.

Mrs. Parnell hands Bill his test paper.

"When Did Tomorrow Become Yesterday"

There haave been times when history seemed cold and distant, without much importance for the people who studied it. That ins't true, now. So much history is happening around us. This year gave us crises in energy, economy, and foreign affairs. the realization grew that, when future students wonder how things got so bad—or how they got better—they will look at the mistakes and triumphs that happened this year and the next few years to come. Suddenly we knew that if we were going to shape our futures well we would have to know—more than ever before—the lessons of our past.

Vocational Classes Prepare Us for the Future

Vocational classes teach students how to do things: sew pillows and rebuild carburetors; replace buttons and machine metal; type and print; develop film and use TV cameras; how to operate machines and how to use tools. All that and much more. The range of vocational classes is broad and varied because the world has many different opportunities. But it asks, in return, a wide range of skills. For some, these classes will have a direct bearing on their future. Printers, computer operators, mechanics, and others will look back in retrospect to the vocational classes at ISD which started them on their life's work. For others, the lessons will be less direct. But for everybody, learning to work hard and honestly at a task until it is completed will be a craft that will enrich us all our lives.

Administration

All the behind-the-scenes work known as "running the school" is done by the administrative staff. In a school this size the work is staggering, both in volume and complexity. They influence every facet of school life, and its smooth operation is a tribute to their skill and dedication.

Looking back on the dorm, classes, homework, activities, friends and dates, the seniors all look forward to graduation with both joy and sadness—joy because we're moving into our futures, and sadness because we're leaving our past at ISD. We remember our high school years of freshman awkwardness, sophomore confidence, junior development, and senior knowledge. We were taught to be good leaders, to participate in organizations or sports, to have good manners, and to become involved in the world. Only time will tell how well we've learned our lessons, but we're eager to face what life holds for us.

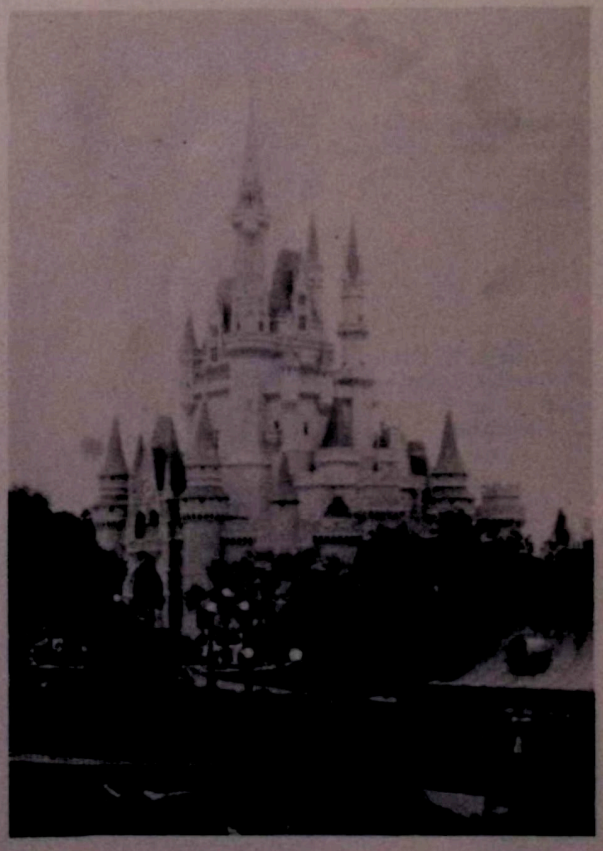
It was some a year and quite an experience—or it would be better to say "quite a group of experiences." This Senior Class didn't spend all its time sitting on the steps of the main building. They went to birthday parties—like this one for Bobby Byers at Farrell's. They went to Florida and saw Disney World. And, before they graduated they all went through some big changes—though few went through as many as Dave Williams.



Getting Closer to the Future

Having one more year in high school to go excites the Junior class as they prepare their plans for the senior trip by starting activities. "Disco Prom" turned out to be a popular one, Also, they worked toward the spring prom, entitled "Oriental Gardens." Studies in the Junior year are much easier after two years of experience in high school. One more year is on the way and then YEA!!

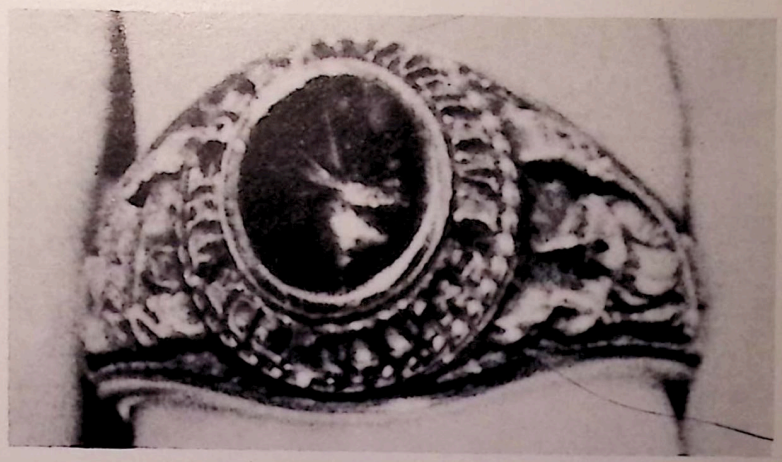
Sophomores Are One Step Higher

One step higher than the year before, they have made great changes. There is more homework to do, more time to spend searching from book to book, from note to note, and from paper to paper trying to find answers to the questions the teachers ask.

Class activities have been the most fun. They invent and create different ideas to attract others—to let them come and see what the sophomores are like. This year they had the Haunted House, Challenge of the Sexes, Valentine's Party, Last Time Together Party, raffles and bake sales to keep the class's money high. When they get to the last step of high school, they will need all that money for their Senior trip.



One of the most exciting event of the sophomore year was getting the longawaited class rings.

David Gordon needs some sleep before going to take the test.

There are some frustrations in marking the change from Middle to high school. Every freshman wants to call for help sometimes during the struggle to finish all that work and to get used to this faster-paced kind of learning.

It's not all studying though. This freshman class version of "The Gong Show" was a great success, both financially and artistically. They also found time to sell christmas wrapping paper and started building the funds necessary for the bigger class activities that wait for them in the future

Somewhere along the line, they became full-fledged high school students. Just when they had it all figured out, school was over. Now they need again—help to get them through the summer to their sophomore year.

Middle School 2 Goes for the Future

Here's a question: What happens when you call someone in Middle School II a "kid?"

You are probably in trouble. Students in MS II know very well what they aren't. What they want to know is who they are. MS II is a very "between" time. Change is part of childhood, of course, but it suddenly becomes more than just matter of getting bigger and stronger, of learning more. The changes happening now are sometimes scary. When middle school is finished, the students won't be the same people they were when they went in. That is enough to make anybody stop and think. But the scariness doesn't last for long, because the future still seems thrilling and the MS II students look toward the excitement of high school.

Middle School 1 Branches Out

One of the ways that MS1 people practice their communication skills is by signing and singing Valentines every February. It has become one of ISD's favorite activities—and one of its most successful fund raisers. Signing Valentines takes them all over campus and provides an opportunity for the students to understand responsibility, have fun, and earn money.

Intermediate Primary Students face both the demands of school and the challenges of growing up. Their interest is quickened by the challenges that they can see ahead, and they are excited by the speed with which they can learn new things. It's all a matter of time now because soon they will move to the Main Building and accept the hard work of Middle and High School.

Most of the communication skills a person possesses are developed within the first five years of life. The challenge that the Primary Unit faces is to give their students the best communication skills possible as early as possible and to prepare them for their long careers as middle and high school students. The Primary teachers meet the challenge, not only with dedication, but with zest and enthusiasm. So their students learn, not only in classrooms but on field trips, during Christmas parties, and while visiting the local skating rink. It's fun, but the learning never stops.
